

Help Our Trapped Cats

Cats less accustomed to human interaction generally have a heightened sense of fear and anxiety during clinic visits. These small measures can help this population feel more comfortable.

Minimizing noise reduces fear and stress

A dark room helps cats rest and recover

Separation from dogs and other unfamiliar sounds helps ease anxiety

Pheromone sprays help cats feel at home

Sound machines mask loudness elsewhere in the clinic

Covered traps provide a sense of security